

Media, Narratives, and Public Perception

NAME

DATE

LEARNING OUTCOMES — CHECK EACH ONE OFF AS YOU MASTER IT

- Identify common migration narratives and media bias
- Explain media influence on public perception
- Analyze migration coverage examples and compare sources
- Recognize misinformation and stereotypes

KEY TERMS — DEFINE EACH IN YOUR OWN WORDS

Framing

Moral panic

Agenda-setting

Public opinion

GUIDED NOTES — FILL IN THE MISSING FIGURES AS YOU FOLLOW THE LECTURE

1. Skinner (2025): survey experiment (N = 1,800+ US respondents) — securitization frame increased partisan polarization on refugee admissions by _____ age points vs. a humanitarian frame that showed ...

2. Zogata-Kusz et al. (2023): six months of Polish and Czech print media analyzed — 'deserving' social construction of Ukrainian refugees appeared in _____ of positive coverage, with racial and cultural ...

REFLECTION — ANSWER IN FULL SENTENCES

Mosso et al. show that negative immigration rhetoric in media measurably increases physiological hostility. What does this imply for editorial standards? Should media organizations adopt specific policies on migration language and imagery — and if so, who ...

Social media algorithms structurally amplify inflammatory migration content. Who bears responsibility — platform companies, governments, journalists, educators, individual users? What interventions are most likely to be effective?

MY QUESTIONS FOR CLASS